RE: 2022 TID Policies and Operations Plan

Please find enclosed three documents to reference for information about how TID plans to manage and operate through the 2022 irrigation season. The 2022 Water Supply and Operations Policy and 2022 TID Well Irrigated Acres Program have been updated with a few key modifications from previous versions you may have seen, and the addition to the packet is the 2022 Water Management Operations Plan.

The 2022 Water Management Operations Plan explains TID's strategic plan for diversion of the small surface water allotment that has been made available from Upper Klamath Lake. This includes details of how TID will operate and attempt to make a portion of the surface water available for Lease Lands irrigation.

These documents, and other notices or information about developments throughout the season will be available on TID's website www.tulelakeid.com. Other pertinent material and updates regarding the Klamath Project and the 2022 irrigation season may be found on the Klamath Water Users Association (KWUA) website www.kwua.org. Information on 2022 Klamath Project Drought Response Agency (DRA) Programs may be found on the DRA website www.klamathwaterbank.com.

If you have questions please contact Brad Kirby, Manager (bkirby.tid@cot.net) or Kraig Beasley, Assistant Manager (kbeasley.tid@cot.net) at the TID office (530) 667-2249.

Please submit your farm plans identifying intended crops and irrigation information to TID as soon as possible. It is critical to coordinate your farm plan with the district promptly, even if tentative, to help identify issues where water delivery may be difficult.

DON'T IRRIGATE ROADS AND DITCH BANKS.

Thank you.

Manager
